

The Roast Box

The Roast Box has been around in various forms in America for many years known as the La Caja China or the Cajun Microwave and has proven to be the ideal way to cook a large amount of food in a short period of time.

The Roast Box uses indirect heat similar to a large camp oven to heat the oven chamber and rapidly cook whatever is inside. Add to this the advantage of having a BBQ grill or rotisserie space above and you have a massive cooking area at a very low cost. Charcoal or wood can be used as the heat source.

For example the large model pictured below will cook 10-12 large chickens inside and 4 on the rotisserie or use the BBQ grill to cook steaks and sausages. It is also capable of cooking a whole small lamb or small pig inside.

You can even put some embers inside to add that subtle smoked flavour.

Comes with instructions for easy assembly and a recipe book.

Truly a versatile and easy to use product that will see you cooking in no time for that big party.

Loads of cooking space.

A whole pig can be cooked in under 4 hours
